EMORY COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Digital Publishing
in the Humanities

Open Access Subvention Application 2023

Before beginning this application, we recommend that applicants:

> review the Guidelines for Authors;
> consult with the Fox Center's Senior Associate Director for Publishing.

Emory Author Information

First name:

Last name:

Email:

Title:

Emory department:

Coauthor Information (if applicable)

First name:

Last name:

Email:

Title:

Affiliation:

Project Information

Requested subvention amount:

Working title:

Estimated word count:

Number of illustrations:

Will a print copy be available for purchase?

Will the book be enhanced with digital resources?

If yes, please describe the digital enhancements:

Publication Information

Publisher name:

Acquiring editor:

Editor email:

Editor phone:

Manuscript delivery date:

Estimated publication date:

Supporting Documentation

Please combine this application form and the following documents into a single PDF and submit via email to the Senior Associate Director for Publishing.

EITHER a signed publication contract OR a letter of interest from the publisher, on publisher letterhead, stating its intent to publish the book and the level of support expected to make the work open. The letter should also describe the publisher's plans for distribution and marketing of the open monograph, as well as any significant deviations from the guidelines described in the Guidelines for Publishers. Non-AUPresses members must also articulate their review and editorial selection processes and confirm their capacity to produce and market an open digital monograph to a high standard.

A one-page statement from the author explaining how the project would benefit from open access (and, where applicable, enhanced digital) publication.

A copy of the book proposal. Where a digital presence already exists, a link should be provided.

(In cases where peer review has already been conducted) Copies of all readers' reports and a copy of any author response.