

FCHI Undergraduate Humanities Honors Fellowship 2018 – 2019

The Bill and Carol Fox Center for Humanistic Inquiry
Emory University

The Fox Center for Humanistic Inquiry, along with the Emory College of Arts and Sciences Honors Program, will offer up to four Fellowships to support work on completing honors projects for one semester. The purpose of these Fellowships is to provide undergraduates with the opportunity to participate in a vibrant humanities research community of Emory faculty, graduate students, and visiting scholars. In addition to having shared office space and fellowship resources, Honors Fellows will be expected to participate in the intellectual life of the Center and its programs. Honors Fellows will take part in the Fox Center's Honors Works In Progress, which will meet three times during the spring semester, and will present their work to the other Fellows at the Spring Colloquium. In addition, they will contribute to the undergraduate research blog <http://foxcenterresearchcommons.wordpress.com/>. Honors Fellows will submit a completed copy of their theses to the Center. The Fellowship begins the first day of the Spring semester and runs through Commencement.

The FCHI Humanities Honors Fellows Program is designed both for students of humanities departments and programs as well as students working with humanistic issues in the social and natural sciences. Students must be part of the Honors Program of the Emory College of Arts and Sciences, and their projects must be humanistic, but students may be enrolled in any program. Honors Fellows are expected to graduate in Spring 2019.

Friday, November 16, 2018, is the deadline for submission of applications and all supporting documents. All applications and supporting documents, including a C.V. and an Emory transcript, must be emailed to: foxcenter@emory.edu.
